

Under the Sea

All organisms are classified into groups based upon their characteristics.

The group below are trying to decide whether whales are fish. The first thought bubble has been completed for you.

For the other characters complete their thought bubbles making sure that you include a range of opinions.

When you have finished show your work to another student. Discuss with them the various opinions. What do you think – is a whale a fish?

